The Jack 100 Series Classic rifle, imported from Rogow, Poland, and crafted by WBP, merges traditional Polish craftsmanship with the cutting-edge features of the AK-100 series, resulting in a firearm that offers unmatched performance and reliability. WBP, a well-regarded Polish firearm manufacturer, supplies weapons and parts to military, law enforcement, and civilian markets around the world. Chambered in 7.62x39 and designed as a semi-automatic rifle, the Jack 100 Series is compatible with a variety of Mil-Spec magazines and drum magazines. This model includes key enhancements from the AK-100 series, such as a 90-degree gas block, a 24mm muzzle brake, and dual bayonet lugs. Although the rifle is initially manufactured in Poland, it is further upgraded in the U.S. by WBP USA to comply with 922r regulations. The result is a striking firearm, complete with a sleek Plum Poly stock set and a rich, glossy black metal finish.

The rifle is equipped with a hammer-forged, chrome-lined barrel made by FB Radom, the Polish military's leading supplier, ensuring superior durability, precision, and long-term performance. To enhance its collectible appeal, the Jack 100 Series features factory-engraved serial numbers on critical components and displays the Polish Eagle emblem on the left side of the sight block. These details not only contribute to its aesthetic value but also enhance its potential for resale. Each rifle comes with a 30-round AK-47 magazine, making it a perfect choice for those looking for a top-tier, modernized AK rifle backed by proven Polish engineering. The AK-100 series, introduced in 1994, represents a contemporary evolution of the legendary AK rifle family. While similar in appearance to the AK-74, the AK-100 series is available in multiple calibers, offering flexible options for various operational needs. Designed by Kalashnikov Concern, the AK-100 series refines the classic AK-47 design with modern features such as a 90-degree gas block, 24mm muzzle brake, and dual bayonet lugs. These upgrades not only improve the rifle's performance but also give it a distinctive appearance that sets it apart from earlier versions in the AK lineup.
