The Jack 100 Series Classic rifle, imported from Rogow, Poland, and built by WBP, merges traditional Polish craftsmanship with the advanced features of the AK-100 series to offer outstanding performance and reliability. WBP, a respected firearms manufacturer based in Poland, provides firearms and components to military, police, and civilian markets globally. Chambered in 5.56 NATO and configured as a semi-automatic, the Jack 100 Series is compatible with a variety of Mil-Spec magazines and drum magazines. It incorporates key elements from the AK-100 series, including a 90-degree gas block, a 24mm muzzle brake, and dual bayonet lugs. While the rifle is made in Poland, it is later upgraded in the U.S. by WBP USA to comply with 922r regulations. The result is a sleek, highly functional rifle with a distinctive Plum Poly stock set and a deep, rich black metal finish.

The rifle's collectibility is enhanced by factory-engraved serial numbers on key parts and the Polish Eagle emblem on the left side of the sight block. These design features not only add to its visual appeal but also increase its potential resale value. A 30-round AK-47 magazine is included with each rifle, making it an ideal choice for those seeking a modernized, high-quality AK with proven Polish engineering. The AK-100 series, introduced in 1994, is a modern evolution of the legendary AK rifle platform. While similar in appearance to the AK-74, the AK-100 series is available in a variety of calibers, offering versatility for different operational needs. Designed by Kalashnikov Concern, the AK-100 series refines the classic AK-47 design with updated features such as a 90-degree gas block, a 24mm muzzle brake, and dual bayonet lugs. These enhancements improve functionality and give the rifles a distinct look, setting them apart from earlier models.
